Notes on the Contributors

_Imre Josef Demhardt_ is a geographer and a historian interested in post-enlightenment cartography, colonialism and regional studies focusing on the Arctic, Africa and the Americas. His publications include the exhibition catalogue Der Erde ein Gesicht geben. Petermanns Geographische Mitteilungen und die Entstehung der modernen Geographie in Deutschland (2006) and the anthology Die Arktis (2016). Imre currently serves as co-editor of Vol. 5 (Nineteenth Century) of University of Chicago encyclopedia History of Cartography and as Chair of the ICA Commission on the History of Cartography.

_Peter Jordan_ is a cultural geographer with a focus on East-Central and Southeast Europe, cartographer and atlas editor (1989–2014 editor-in-chief of the Atlas of Eastern and Southeastern Europe) as well as toponymist. He teaches at the universities of Vienna, Klagenfurt (both Austria) and Cluj-Napoca (Romania) and holds the functions of Chair, Joint ICA/IGU Commission on Toponymy, Managing Editor, Annals of the Austrian Geographical Society. His work comprises more than 370 scientific publications.

_Eric Losang_ studied Geography, History, Political Sciences and Economics at Trier University in Germany, followed by two years working in the international tourism industry. He joined the Leibniz Institute for Regional Geography in 1999 as a researcher and works on several atlas projects, such as the National Atlas of Germany and the Digital Atlas of Geopolitical Imaginaries of Eastern Central Europe. His research focuses on production modes and techniques in geovisualisation, atlas concepts and cartographies. Recently, he has worked on developing pragmatic approaches to critical cartographies. He is Vice Chair of the ICA Commission on Atlases and a Visiting Lecturer at the Free University Berlin, the Research Academy in Leipzig and the University of Leipzig.
